Robbed of Her Name

A vague feeling of disappointment and sadness had crept over Iris, and she sat motionless and speechless. It was going away, then, for years, perhaps. Come as often as she may to the brook she would not meet him again!

Her sadness ceased catching, for he sighed.

"Rather a hard lot, isn't it?" he said, smiling.

She started slightly as if awakened from some train of thought.

"Hard?" she said.

"Yes. Most men have some object, some tie to bind them to some particular spot on earth. I have none. I am just a wanderer, and that is all. Fate has, in sportive mockery, placed me in a position which sets me apart from my fellows, and, like the stormy petrel, I fly over the sea of life alone!"

"I beg your pardon!" he said quickly, as if he were ashamed. "I did not mean to wound."

"You did not wound," she said.

"Thanks! I didn't mean to complain even if I have. I have none. I am just a wanderer, and that is all. Fate has, in sportive mockery, placed me in a position which sets me apart from my fellows, and, like the stormy petrel, I fly over the sea of life alone!"

"What have I said?" he asked her impulsively. "Was it wrong, say that I would consider myself your friend?"

"Yes," she said quickly, and as it seemed to him, happily. "There can be no friendship between you and—let me finish—'for seeing her path up her retina, he had in his excitement laid his hand upon the bride—"

"Good-bye," he said, and with this he struck Miss Corvadele sharply with his whip.

"At a moment when she was leaning forward, and before Lord Corvadele could speak or move, she had quivered."

"I think it is probable," he replied. "You will see fresh comers, fresh people, and with fresh adventures—" she stopped, and gathered up the reins.

"That is a polite way of saying that I am heartless and ungrateful over Iris," she said, with a reproachful smile. "Is that to be your last word to accompany me on my way to the forest? Kind words, will you not?"

Iris looked from one side to the other with a little tremor, and then she said, with an exquisite softness and gentleness:

"What can I say?" she said, with a little catch in her breath. "The ordinary ones? That I wish you every prosperity and happiness?"

"That is better," he said, earnestly. "Far—far better—than you really wish me."

"Why should I wish you really wish me?" she asked, smiling. "I wish you every prosperity and happiness."

"And I am not your enemy," he said, quickly.

As he spoke he took off his hat, and held it in his hand, to let the cool breeze blow on his forehead. Iris looked down.

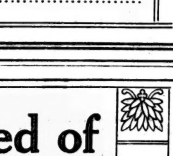

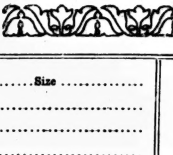

"I cannot be your enemy," he said. "Do you forget that you saved my life?"

Iris raised her eyes with a spark of playful malice in them.

"They say that to save a man's life is to make him an enemy for the rest of his life!" she said.

"Ah, then I will be the exception to the rule!" she retorted, not playfully but earnestly, but with a grave earnestness. "All through my wanderings I will keep the thought close to my heart, that though you will not let me see your face, you will not let me see your face."

As he spoke he moved his hat to emphasize his words and Iris' downcast eyes fell upon the inside of it, as she did so the dreamy expression from her face passed, and she looked at startled surprise, which was followed, as cloud follows cloud across a

DISSECTION OF BY-LAW BEGINS

Committee Thinks Building
Rules Too Strict.

HORSE FEATHERS

Fire Chief Explains Just What They Are.

With prominent contractors declaring that it would cost about $50 per cent more to undertake construction in the centre of the city under the proposed new building regulations, the Fire, Police and Jail Committee last night agreed to go thoroughly into the by-law and gave authority to Ald. Wright, Roy and Tyrrell to make an investigation and report back at the next meeting. The principal objection the committee had was in connection with the fire limits. The inside area consists of the block bounded by Cannon, St. Lawrence, Hunter and Bay streets. In this all buildings must be absolutely fireproof. Some of the aldermen thought it a hardship that houses and small stores should be of this nature.

"It will mean an increase in the cost of building from 40 to 50 per cent," declared Ald. Plunkett.

"You'll save it in insurance," returned Chief Tom Kyle.

But look at the houses and small business places. It is not absolutely necessary that they be all of fireproof material," added Ald. Wright.

"They should all have fireproof roofs, anyway," thought the chief.

Secretary James presented the section of the new by-law dealing with fire limits, these being as follows:

Limit A consists of that portion of the city bounded by the east side of Bay street on the west, by the west side of Catherine street on the east, by the south side of Cannon street on the north and by the north side of Hunter street on the south, occupying therefrom that portion of the city comprised in limit A.

Limit B consists of that portion of the city bounded by the east side of Catherine street on the west, by the west side of Victoria avenue on the east, by the south side of Cannon street on the north, and by the north side of Hunter street on the south, occupying therefrom that portion of the city comprised in limit A.

Limit C consists of that portion of the city described by the line commencing 100 feet easterly of Trolley street, northerly to the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, westerly to the eastern limits of Dundas Park, southerly to York street, along York street to the east side of Dundas street, along Dundas street to 100 feet northerly of Aberdeen street, to the brow of the mountain, easterly to the place of beginning, excepting therefrom that portion of the city comprised in limits A and B.

"Limit D consists of lands within the limits of the city of Hamilton or at present defined or may be made by future amendments in time for the meeting of the Council three weeks hence, where the by-law as a whole will be given its third reading.

"The Controllers have cut out some pretty fine this year, you know," observed Secretary James.

"How about some of the money for horses this year, can we have anything there?" asked Ald. Wright.

"Give whiz, no!" exclaimed the chief. "I need six more horses, and I tell you I don't know where to get them. I went to Toronto

"Salads" Tea is "Hill-Grown"

"Hill-grown" tea has the small, tender leaves—with full, rich, delicious fragrance, redolent of the spicy tropics.

It is a tea of the highest quality, and is the only tea of the kind that is grown in the hills of the Himalayas.

BLACK, GREEN or MIXED

On Saturday and saw a good one, but when I got back this morning it was gone.

"How about the six $2-Controller Bailey has?" continued Ald. Wright. "Two many features on them," announced the chief, to the intense amusement of the committee.

"I don't say chickens, chief, I said roosters," protested Ald. Wright.

"Sure, but there was a lot of long tails of hair on any horse," explained the chief, to the great relief of the aldermen.

"I was commencing to think that our stall old chief was becoming quite a chicken fancier when he began to talk of roosters, but I guess it is all right," added the chairman, Ald. Dr. Hopkins.

However, the committee was positive that no money could be had from the horse account this year.

It was finally decided to leave the question of the ten dollars to the mercy of the Controllers.

The aldermen spent half an hour in discussing the system, and the lack of system, in the appointing of men to the department. The chief explained that all underwent a medical examination and had to be satisfactory to him. He added, though, that he would just as soon have the committee decide who should be appointed, as it would relieve him of any considerable responsibility, in view of the fact that the Controller J. J. Tyrrell and Ald. Wright and Tyrrell will act in conjunction with the chief in the future.

Last night C. Hoyle and E. Hoyle were placed on the permanent list, after serving six months as probationers. J. H. Bishop and D. Mann were recommended as probationers, but it was left to the new committee to decide out of a list of twenty applicants who were most fitted.

The aldermen of D. W. Wadsworth, J. Pedlar, A. Goulet and J. McKinnon were accepted, mostly because the committee had no other course. The men left the employ of the department some time ago.

The off-registered complaint about the new King William police station was brought before the committee once more by Chief Smith. He explained that by using cement instead of brick, the builders had made a mistake, inasmuch as the present foundation allowed the walls to sag. When Controller J. J. Tyrrell was called in, he explained that the walls were sagging, and that the architect should be asked to explain.

The off-registered complaint about the new King William police station was brought before the committee once more by Chief Smith. He explained that by using cement instead of brick, the builders had made a mistake, inasmuch as the present foundation allowed the walls to sag. When Controller J. J. Tyrrell was called in, he explained that the walls were sagging, and that the architect should be asked to explain.

WORK for a rise. How! Learn something the other fellow doesn't know. Go ahead. It's a cinch that you'll get a rise if you gain knowledge that has an actual cash value—you'll COMMAND more cash because you are WORTH MORE than one that lags behind. Whatever position you now hold you must keep up with the times if you would ADVANCE. Better still, you should keep AHEAD OF THE PROGRESS. The latest and greatest NEW knowledge concerns the Panama Canal. To know about this modern wonder is to have something "up your sleeve" that will add to your "market value."

NO FREE WHEAT FOR CANADIAN FARMERS

Increased Protection For Iron and Steel Industries—Wire Rods Put on Dutiable List.

Five Per Cent. Reduction on Binders, Mowers, Reapers—Debt Increased Revenue Reduced.

OTTAWA, April 6.—It was a budget of surprises and pronouncements. The Hon. Mr. White, Minister of Finance, in his speech from the throne, surprised the country by his announcement that the Government would not reduce the tariff on wheat. He also announced that the Government would increase the tariff on wire rods, and that it would reduce the tariff on binders, mowers, and reapers. The Government also announced that it would increase the tariff on iron and steel, and that it would reduce the tariff on agricultural implements.

New Tariff Pointers

No free wheat.
No free agricultural implements.
Reduction in duty from 17½ per cent. to 12½ per cent. upon harvesters, reapers, binders and mowers.
No reduction upon plows and other implements.
Increase in tariff upon building stone.
Increased protection for iron and steel beams.
Wire rods, hitherto free, made subject to duty, except wire for fencing, which is made subject to drawback.
Increase in drawback on imported pig iron used in manufacturing.
Bituminous coal, for smelting and foundry purposes only, made subject to drawback of 39 per cent.
Increase in tariff upon iron and steel tubing.
Brass sheets, bars and rods, heretofore free, made subject to 10 per cent. tariff.

Importation of airplanes, osprey planes, and other planes prohibited after January 1, 1915.
Sixty-nine schedules of tariff changes submitted.
The existing tariff provides for an inflexible surtax of one-third of the duty. Hon. Mr. White said he would submit an amendment under which imports from countries which discriminate against imports from Canada or Canadian shipping will be subject to a surtax above the regular duties of an amount not exceeding 20 per cent. ad valorem.

ALL TO HELP MANUFACTURERS.
The manufacturers, however, have been disappointed. The Government has decided to increase the tariff on wire rods, and to reduce the tariff on binders, mowers, and reapers. The Government has also decided to increase the tariff on iron and steel, and to reduce the tariff on agricultural implements.

factured into the finished product. In all these cases the duty is a charge on the finished product, and not on the raw material. The Government has decided to increase the tariff on wire rods, and to reduce the tariff on binders, mowers, and reapers. The Government has also decided to increase the tariff on iron and steel, and to reduce the tariff on agricultural implements.

1912-13 EXPANSION YEAR.
Hon. Mr. White followed the practice adopted by Premier Borden in inaugurating a new feature by reading the Budget speech from the throne. He declared that the Budget for the fiscal year of 1913-14, which he presented to the House on April 6, was the most important in the history of the Dominion. He said that the Government had decided to increase the tariff on wire rods, and to reduce the tariff on binders, mowers, and reapers. The Government has also decided to increase the tariff on iron and steel, and to reduce the tariff on agricultural implements.

SURPLUS OF 56½ MILLIONS.
Although the Finance Minister was not to announce a surplus or a deficit, he did announce that the Government had a surplus of 56½ millions. He said that the Government had decided to increase the tariff on wire rods, and to reduce the tariff on binders, mowers, and reapers. The Government has also decided to increase the tariff on iron and steel, and to reduce the tariff on agricultural implements.

THE FALING OFF.
Hon. Mr. White estimated that the revenue for the year would reach 191,000,000, a falling off of nearly 10 millions from the year of 1912-13. He said that the Government had decided to increase the tariff on wire rods, and to reduce the tariff on binders, mowers, and reapers. The Government has also decided to increase the tariff on iron and steel, and to reduce the tariff on agricultural implements.

Mexican Rebels Expelling Them From the North.

Federals Still Claim to Hold Torreon.

Torreón, Mex., April 6.—Northern and Central Mexican rebels have been thoroughly cleared of Spanish residents by the Constitutionalists. The latest news of wholesale expulsion of Spaniards was brought here by Gen. Guzmán, commander of the rebel forces in the State of San Luis Potosí.

Very consideration has been shown here, Gen. Guzmán said. They have been given plenty of money to leave the country, and they have been given plenty of money to leave the country. They have been given plenty of money to leave the country, and they have been given plenty of money to leave the country.

Justification for the wholesale deportation, it is said, is found in the Mexican constitution, the famous "provisional article" which gave Mexican authorities the right to deport undesirable aliens.

MEXICO CITY, April 6.—The Mexican Foreign Minister, Señor Portillo y Rojas, yesterday denied the Associated Press story that the Mexican Government had intercepted a telegram from Gen. Huerta, asking for permission to hold Torreon.
